Community Schools' Program

As a method of extending educational opportunities to the entire community through a fuller utilization of school facilities and to collaborate with residents, businesses, and public agencies, a Community Schools' Program may be maintained. The program is financed by special levy funds, fees collected for classes and activities, gifts, grants, donations, and inter-agency agreements.

The superintendent shall establish and periodically present to the Board for review a Community Schools' Program, which is responsive to the varying needs of citizens and students living in different sections of the community.
